Good morning everyone! Hope you had a good night of sleep, and are ready to start the day.

On Friday, teachers will be getting ready (virtually) through professional development to move forward with new instruction. Therefore, they may not be responding or posting on Friday as they have since we have been home.

What I suggest for students, is to make sure that you are familiar with ALL of your teachers’ Schoology pages - including your Encore teachers - so that you are ready to go on Monday.

Though we will be largely delivering asynchronous (meaning, you can participate in learning at any time that is convenient to you/your family) instruction, teachers may start scheduling some synchronous meetings that you can participate in during specific times - this can never be mandatory, as everyone has different schedules and responsibilities that they have to juggle. I will announce letter days in Schoology posts, so you can keep organized and be reminded to check into your rotating Encore classes regularly.

Many of you participate in class “response forums” as part of your regular classroom experience - these are expected to be a normal and regular part of your daily learning - a way for teachers to check to see that you understand lessons and concepts.

I don’t want any of you to stress out about this - we are all on this together, and we’ll make sure that each and every one of you will be able to participate in new learning experiences. This will be a growth experience for all of us!

I hope you have a great day - I miss seeing all of your faces!
