Good Morning Narwhal Nation!

Every day, when we get outside and walk around our neighborhood, we are noticing the colors of all of the flowering trees and plants that are starting to emerge from a long winter. The sun is shining today - make sure you get outside for a while. Being out in the sunshine allows your body to produce more Vitamin D, which is very helpful in elevating your mood and strengthening your bones!

In terms of remote learning, yesterday I talked to you about moving forward with new instruction. In terms of the 3rd MP, the teachers will be allowed to accept late work while we are out of school. Nothing that we’ve done since we’ve been home the past two weeks is mandatory, so you will not be penalized for anything that you’ve missed.

DASD teachers will be learning of more ways to teach remotely tomorrow, so don't expect anything new on your teacher pages for Friday.

Look for folders and messages from your teachers on their Schoology pages on Monday - they will have instructions there regarding daily lessons. There will be flexibility in timing of access to materials and also when you can submit work that is to be graded. More information will be coming from DASD in the next few days.

I will not be on Schoology tomorrow with a message, so I want to wish you a GREAT weekend!
