GPA and Grades

- Many colleges use Senior grades in their admissions decisions.
  - Colleges may ask to see your first semester grades.
  - Colleges consider grades from all four years of high school.
  - Stay focused on finishing out the year strong and keep your grades up; final grades could impact scholarship opportunities and admissions.

- GPA by year- transcript will show individual GPAs from each year
  - Admissions looks for trends, such as steady achievement or improvement over time.

- Cumulative GPA- average of each year combined, which includes dividing the number of quality points earned in all courses attempted by the total degree-credit hours in all attempted courses.
Course Selection

Rigor of Senior year schedule

“More and more, colleges are placing an emphasis on course rigor because they want to ensure that students are prepared to handle a college course load. If a student takes a low number of credits or markedly easier classes, it is likely that the admissions officer reviewing that applicant will wonder if that student is prepared or motivated enough to handle the academic rigors of that particular institution.”

What is SRAR?

- SRAR stands for Self Reported Academic Record
- Student enters their entire high school transcript with grades and credits
- Honor system
- Most times it replaces the high school from sending a transcript
- If you are admitted and accept to attend, we will send an official final transcript which the college will check against what you self reported
  - If there are discrepancies, your admissions offer may be rescinded.
- Some colleges that accept SRAR include Pitt, Penn State, South Carolina, Rutgers, UC schools
- SRAR is incorporated into the Common App called, Courses & Grades, but it is only required for a few schools.
Types of Applications

- Common Application (CA)
  - Approx. 800 colleges including international
  - 65 colleges in PA - Ex. Temple, UPenn, Lehigh, Bucknell, Drexel, Gettysburg

- Non-Common Application (eDocs)

  - The Coalition usually overlaps with Common App meaning the college will accept either type
    - If both CO and CA are offered, we prefer CA!

  - http://mycoalition.org
